Kids Only Town Hall Meeting

by Whitney Ray

March 31st, 2009

Florida government leaders will work to meet the needs of some of the state's smallest residents.

Kids were in Tallahassee Tuesday seeking answers from state agency heads. The kids asked a panel of state leaders about education and health care funding. Governor Charlie Crist welcomed the questions and thanked the kids for their input.

“The greatest gift I think any of us can have is the opportunity to learn, by listening to you, and you’re peers and your colleagues we can only learn more. Learn more about the challenges you have whether it is in education or health care or whatever it might be,” said Crist.

The students were in Tallahassee for the 14th annual Kids Week. This is only the second year the Kid’s Only Town Hall meeting was held.
